Built on Iconic Heritage

The 1930s were a very special era in Irish Motor Racing. The three successful Irish International Grand Prix held in Dublin's Phoenix Park between 1929 and 1931 encouraged many enthusiasts to become involved and led to races being held on street and road circuits throughout Ireland.

For those who could not afford a purpose-built racing car there was an alternative – designing and building your own 'Special'. This was a very popular route into motor racing for Irish enthusiasts and these 'Specials' were often of a very high standard and very competitive.

One of the most famous 'Specials' was the Statham-Ford Special built in the garage of the same name on which this hotel is now built.

Driven initially by it's designer and builder, George Statham, the car was driven to several notable successes by MJ Hynes who took over driving duties in 1930.

Powered by a Ford V-8 engine it had notable success at the 1934 Phoenix Park Senior Race that it won outright in a new record time. It's greatest success came in the 1935 Limerick Grand Prix; a street race that attracted some of the best drivers on these islands. There it placed 7th overall against some of the finest purpose-built racing cars of the day built by legendary names such as ERA, MG and Bugatti.
